Homecoming 2014

Breann McCord

This years homecoming events had great turnouts. The football team won over Livingston and many students attended the Indian inspired dance the following night.

“The homecoming game was great! It was fun hearing the band play and dancing with my friends in the stands it felt nice to forget the stress of school,” sophomore Megan Anz said.

The homecoming game is a great time where students can forget the stress of school, show their team spirit, watch their team play and have fun.

“You could feel the tension from the football players and everybody in the stands as those five seconds dragged on until the scoring touchdown,” sophomore Matthew Smithey said.

There were lots of emotions on the field before the Panthers scored the winning touch down winning the game 35 to 31.

On Saturday the students enjoyed the annual homecoming dance. The theme this year was Escape to India.

“I loved the dance since I got to dance with all my friends because I don’t get to go out and dance often,” sophomore Megan Anz said.

There was lots of excitement during the dance while some high schoolers broke out their best dance moves others enjoyed socializing.

“My favorite part probably was getting to see all my friends cause you cant have too much of that, right?” Smithey said.

Overall, this years homecoming game and dance were a huge successes. It was a great time and a great way for students to show their school spirit while having a good time.

State Superiority

Brandon Skero

DALLAS, Texas -- Last Sunday, October 5, the battle for supremacy in the great state of Texas, between the Houston Texans and Dallas Cowboys, definitely lived up to the hype. The Cowboys escaped with a narrow 20-17 in overtime in just the fourth regular season matchup between the two.

Junior Brandon Coon was rooting for the Cowboys and summarized the game by saying, “Five words: I thought it was awesome.”

Part of what makes this such a big game is the fact that the two teams only meet once every four years. This year it meant even more than it usually does as it marked the first time that they have met with a winning record and high expectations ahead of them.

Senior Adan Sanchez-Linares, a Texans fan, was disappointed with the tough loss but says he still expects the team to, “At least make the playoffs.”

In a match that was decided by a game winning field goal in overtime, it was tough for all Texans fans as they watched their team lose a close one to their in-state rivals. While each loss hurts, losing to the Cowboys is a definitely a bit more bitter than the rest.

Junior Gavin Ritch expressed the feelings of many Texans fans by saying, “It was a heartbreaker”.

Really, no matter who you were cheering for it was a fun game to watch.

Movie Review

Josh Christenberry

Movie theaters are some of the most popular weekend attractions among teenagers everywhere. With this in mind, here are a few movies that have recently been released to theaters. “Gone Girl,” A dramatic thriller, is about a man who’s wife goes missing. After constantly being under immense pressure from the police and the media, suspicion rises and people start to question whether or not the man killed his own wife and attempted to cover it up with an array of lies. This movie features big stars including Ben Affleck, Neil Patrick Harris and Tyler Perry. Based on the best-selling book. I give it a thumbs up!

Are you looking for ways to get involved? There are plenty of clubs at Caney Creek for those students who want to volunteer their time by helping others or getting ahead by learning new skills.

“This gives students a sense of civic responsibility,” history teacher and sponsor of the Interact club Bonnie Cooper said.

The Interact Club is a service organization that is sponsor by Rotary International, it gives the opportunity to students to get together and perform community service activities.

“I really like helping others, since there’s a lot of community service it motivates me to do better,” senior Niala Ortiz said.

A side community service clubs there are other organizations designed to help students learn new skills.

The DECA club teaches students entrepreneurial skills, in marketing, finance, and hospitality.

“We learn a lot of business, which I enjoy too, it’s really helpful,” senior Caelan Courpalais said.

However you want to get involved there’s a way to do so! Join a club that fits your needs and personality.
